SYDNEY TRAINING CENTRE

The Sydney Training Centre offers theoretical and practical training on many Woodward products. The training facility contains several demonstration models and simulation set-ups for standard and customized Woodward controls.

CLASS TYPES

Two types of classes are available to meet your training needs:

Custom training courses are available at the customer's request. The custom training for specified controls, applications, and products can be performed on most Woodward controls other than Aircraft products, and can also be given on-site at the customer's request. Please contact us with any special requirements you may have.

The standard courses cover many Woodward controls. In these courses, Woodward controls are explained with the background of a particular application. The listed training courses are based on a selection of all Woodward products and are designed to be beneficial to all our customers.

ENROLLMENT

Class size of the scheduled courses is limited to provide students better opportunities for learning and hands-on experience. To complement a class, visual aids, handouts, and publications are used. The publications are yours to keep for reference. All material for the class will be supplied.
